7. DESCRIPTION OF AMENDMENT

This Amendment No. 04 revises the University's response to the following question:

Is the August 1, 2026 go-live tied to a specific academic scheduling cycle?

Original Response: Yes. The August 1, 2026 go-live target is aligned with the University's academic scheduling cycle and is intended to support preparation for the Fall 2026 term. While August 1, 2026 represents the University's ideal implementation date, the University is open to considering alternative timelines based on each Offeror's methodology, project approach, and understanding of the scope. Offerors are encouraged to propose a go-live date and accompanying project schedule/timeline as part of their proposal. Any refinements or adjustments to the implementation schedule may be further discussed and finalized with the awarded vendor during early project planning.

Revised Response: The University's implementation timeline is updated to align with preparation for the Spring 2027 term. Offerors may propose an alternative go-live date based on their methodology and project approach, with final scheduling to be confirmed during early project planning.
